»Warum hat die Adelheid keinen Abend für mich Zeit?«

The 25th anniversary CD album of Salonorchester CAPPUCCINO

Egon Friedell once said »Only in yearning can people be themselves (...) in having they suddenly become like everyone else.« In a time that has made »perfection« a standard one cannot praise the incomplete enough: What would a life be without wishes? Absolutely sterile. And unlimited success? Totally boring.

On this most recent CD release, Salonorchester CAPPUCCINO carefully approaches the sensitive topics between pain and bliss. Alongside serious life crises such as heartache or homesickness, there are many small »petty yearnings«, such as the desire for ice cream or the blissful »tipsiness« after a long and hard night. The world of the musical salon seems to be just the right place to explore the cosmos of such elemental emotions. After all, in the end most of life turns out to be an »illusion«...

About the artists

Salonorchester CAPPUCCINO is an ensemble that builds on the history of the flourishing Leipzig music scene. Before the First World War, almost every hotel in Germany's richest city had its own orchestra, and unlike the West German hemisphere, the culture of the salon in the East was »socialistically purified«, yet still alive until the 1970s!

In the 25 years of its concert series »Das gibt' s nur einmal« (This only happens once), the ensemble is deeply immersed in this tradition. Its members mostly belong to renowned orchestras such as the Gewandhausorchester Leipzig and the Staatskapelle Halle, or are professors at the conservatories of Cologne and Bremen.

Particularly influential for the ensemble is its pianist and arranger Prof. Horst Singer, who belonged to the most famous East German big band under Fips Fleischer for more than 25 years.

The CD »Warum hat die Adelheid keinen Abend für mich Zeit?« Is available at eClassical.com in studio quality 24 Bit / 96 kHz).
